The words "Old Nick" come from Nix, the water demon of Scandinavian mythology.

The latest curiosities in natural history captured by California hunters are a white beaver, a white deer, and a white mud hen.

D. T. Jewett, of St. Louis, is believed to be the only man who ever served a "one-day term" in the United States Senate.

The longest single girder in the world is the railroad bridge over the Ohio between Evansville, Ind., and Henderson, Ky. It is 535 feet long.

The French say, for good luck, the first time an infant's nails are cut put a piece of gold or silver in its hand. To make a baby a good singer cut its nails behind a door.

The well at White Plains, Nev., is down over 2300 feet, and can go no further until the water, which is seventeen per cent. salt and so heavy that the ropes and tools float on it and the drill does not penetrate the rock, is shut out.

Dr. Hartwell, of Johns Hopkins University, says that a German soldier can scale a twenty-foot wall with his arms and accoutrements, or jump an iron spiked fence without getting caught. Gymnastics are compulsory in the German schools.

From studies in Sicily, Drs. Buchner and Emmerich find evidence that the occurrence of cholera has some connection with the character of the soil, and that it makes its way into the system through the lungs rather than through the alimentary canal.

Since the accession of Pope Leo XIII. forty-four cardinals have died. Of the cardinals created by Pope Pius IX. twenty-six are still living. The remaining thirty-four have been created by Pope Leo XIII. There are now ten vacancies in the Sacred College. Cardinal Newman is the oldest of the cardinals. There are now 1208 dignitaries in the Roman Catholic hierarchy.

A rather curious arrangement of the hair came into vogue in 1330. The hair was parted in the middle, two very short locks being made to curve out on either side the forehead, the two hind plaits were then crossed and brought under the ears up the sides of the face, being fastened among the hair which hung loose on the sides of the head. In 1340 the two plaits were carried up the sides of the face, having between them and the cheeks a long piece of straight hair cut squarely to the length of the plaits. In the frescoes of the chapel of St. Stephens, Westminster, Queen Philippa and her three daughters are represented with their hair thus arranged.

Washington Money Lenders.

When a government clerk gets deeply "in a hole," or suffers the agonizing discomfort of being on "his last legs," he generally appeals for a lift to one who, in Washington parlance, is known as a 10-percenter. This is a specimen of humanity that loans money for sums not exceeding half the borrower's salary, at the rate of 10 per cent. per month; that is, if your salary is $100 a month, he will loan you $45 in cash and take your note for $50, payable in thirty days. These money-lenders claim this exorbitant interest on the ground that the unscrupulous security subjects them to frequent losses. But I do not see how they can lose; a clerk is completely in their power. They never accept a note without the name of a second clerk in good standing as an endorser. If either clerk refuses to pay, his position in the department can be placed in jeopardy by the 10-percenter filing a report of disregard of obligation against him. The lender's only danger of loss depends upon the rare contingency of death, resignation, or discharge severing both the principal and the endorser's connection with the department.

The note falls due. This money-lender's business is a lucrative one, and the position of many a handsome fortune in Washington has been thus laid. —Atlanta Constitution.

In the Twinkling of an Eye.

The photograph is now as nearly "instantaneous" as possible. When every picture is ready, "Click!" and the artificial eyelid has opened and shut. What has it seen in that little instant of time? If anything is in motion, it has been perceived in that fragment of a second as if motionless. Men walking along the street are pictured with uplifted feet. A trotting horse may be caught with all of its four legs in the air, viewed just at the very moment when he was clear of the ground. A man leaping with a high pole may be pictured in mid-air, precisely in the position in which he appears at the highest altitude. Motion seems rest. But this is not the most wonderful of its powers. Far beyond the keenness of human vision is its range of sight. If the light is good, this sensitive plate of glass will have recorded and discerned a thousand uplifted faces as perfectly as the human eye perceives the features of a single countenance. Every expression of joy or sorrow, every peculiarity of dress or attitude, the leaves of a forest or the grass by the wayside, will have been seen and delineated and retained perfectly in far less than the briefest possible twinkling of a human eye. —Chambers Journal.

His Last Resort.

Clergyman—"My friend, it pains me to see a person of such brilliant attainments as you are going to the bad."

Young Man—"It's not my fault, sir. I never expected to have to work for a living, and I can't bring myself down to it."

Clergyman—"I understand your situation perfectly. You never earned a trade, and now, when your money is all gone, you feel that there is nothing for you to fall back upon."

Young Man—"Not at all, sir. If the worst comes to the worst, I can fall back on a buzz-saw." —Tid-Bit.

"Speaking of extravagance in dress," writes a correspondent, "the most expensively dressed man I ever saw was an African chief on the Gold Coast. His wife had adorned him thoroughly with palm oil and then powdered him from head to foot with gold dust."

A remarkable custom exists among the Roumanians living in the western Carpathians. Every year at the feast of the Apostles Peter and Paul, a market is held on the crest of the Gaius, from 5,000 to 6,000 feet above the level of the sea, and here all the marriageable girls of the entire district assemble with their parents in order to be viewed and claimed.

The population of London now exceeds every other city, ancient or modern, in the world. New York and all its adjacent cities combined are not equal to two-thirds of it. Scotland, Switzerland and the colonies each contain fewer souls, while Norway, Serbia, Greece and Denmark have scarcely half so many. Yet at the beginning of this century the population of all London did not reach 1,000,000.

The City of Coro was founded by Spanish in 1597, and was for 50 years the chief city and capital of Venezuela and the neighboring islands, now belonging to the Dutch. Santa Fe, in New Mexico, and San Augustin, in Florida, were founded some 50 years later, and these three are among the oldest cities in the new world, omitting the island cities, which were built after its discovery.

By the old laws of Wales a harp was one of three things to have to constitute a gentleman. To prevent slaves from pretending to be gentlemen they were not permitted to learn to play upon them, none but the King's musicians and gentlemen were allowed to have harps in their possession, and these harps, like a lady's sewing machine to-day, were not liable to seizure for debt, as the want of it would have degraded him from his rank and reduced him to that of a slave.

Maine boys are demanding an international standard of exchange in the marble trade. In Auburn any kind of a "glasser," "bulls eye," "crystal," or "agate," big or little, goes for ten cents more. In Lewiston the glasser has practically been demoted, and only the large sized "crystals" can be put in for the limit of ten, while most of the ordinary aristocratic laws, even a "blue duff," don't stand in for more than three to seven.

Cut of 817 duels fought in France since 1870, only one has resulted in death and only eight in serious injury. As Mark Twain has said, the French duel is really a healthful form of exercise, as it is fought in the open air and requires a gentle use of the muscles. Probably the Parisians would be healthier and live longer if they fought more duels, for an exercise of such health-giving qualities would doubtless do much to repair the ravages of excitement and dissipation.

THE BLOOD MARKS THE ENTIRE CIRCUMFERENCE OF THE BODY EVERY SEVEN MINUTES, and whenever this circulation is impeded, or any of its channels are clogged by impurities, disease follows—fever, or a disorder of liver, or kidneys, or scrofula, or dyspepsia. Something About Catarrh.
A great many people are afflicted with Catarrh and do not know what ails them; and many more continue sufferers who might be cured.

Thickening of the membrane which lines the nasal passages, thus making breathing difficult; a discharge from the nostrils, more or less copious, watery or thick, according to the stage of the disease; a sense of fullness in the head; a constant inclination to spit; and, in advanced cases, a dropping of intensely discharging matter into the throat, are a few of the prominent symptoms of Catarrh.

Deafness, inflamed eyes, neuralgic pains, more or less, and a loss of sense of smell, are very often caused by Catarrh.

All these troubles are cured by Pilo's Remedy for Catarrh. It is had immediately after beginning its use, but it is important that it be continued until the catarrhal virus is expelled from the system, and healthy secretions replace the diseased action of the mucous membrane. Manifestly it is unreasonable to expect a cure in a short time of a disease that has been progressing for months or years.

This question of time is provided for in the Pilo's Remedy for Catarrh. It is so concentrated that a very small dose is directed. The quantity in one package is sufficient for a long treatment, consequently the expense is a mere trifle, and there is no excuse for neglecting its use, but it is for thoroughness. A cold in the head is cured by the use of Pilo's Remedy for Catarrh. It is the only remedy that it is in this way is worth many times the cost.

The following letters are specimens of those received every day, and they are all true. A cold in the head is cured by the use of Pilo's Remedy for Catarrh. It is the only remedy that it is in this way is worth many times the cost.

Get the Best
Is a good motto to follow in buying a spring medicine, as well as in everything else. By the universal satisfaction it has given, and by the many remarkable cures it has accomplished, Hood's Sarsaparilla is the best medicine for building up, strengthening the system, and curing all diseases from or promoted by impure blood. Do not expect any such unkind of and untold article as you are told is "just as good," but be sure to get only Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"I consider Hood's Sarsaparilla the best medicine I ever used. It gives me an appetite and refreshing sleep, and keeps the cold out." —JOHN S. FORD, 105 Spruce St., Portland, Me.

I am a native of England, and while I was in that country I contracted a terrible disease, and for two years was under treatment as an out-patient at St. George's Hospital, England, but was not cured. I suffered from rheumatism, pains in my bones, and was covered with sores all over my body and limbs. Finally I completely lost all hope of recovery. I was then advised to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, and I did so. I took it for a month, and I was cured. I am now as sound and well as I ever was in my life. —*W. F.
